First let us see what Difference between female and male sex doll

Difference Between Female and Male Sex Dolls

Haha this guy doesn't know the difference between a man and a women.

I know, I know, one doll has a penis, the other has a vagina, simple right?

Not exactly:

There are actually a lot of minor and major differences in the design of male and female sex dolls.

Female love dolls are prized for the incredibly soft and supple quality of their skin, breasts, and butts.

They're designed to be petite and easy to dominate in your fantasies.

Male dolls have different priorities.

Almost every male doll is going to be muscular.

Some qualify as truly ripped individuals.

The feeling of extremely muscular male skin is significantly different from soft female skin.

Expect male dolls to be a bit firmer and less jiggly overall than a female one.

Male dolls are also usually larger.

There's a significant negative bias against short guys and this carries over into male sex dolls.

You'll frequently find male love dolls that are at least 5'4" and some go up to 6'.

Another big difference is the butt of a male doll.

It will usually feel more solid than one on a female doll.

Other things like the shape of the face, the size of the hands, and the way proportions of the doll will also be different. man sex doll

Let's get into how to choose a high-quality doll.

How to choose?

Step 1: budget

Male sex dolls retail from anywhere in between $700 all the way to $13000 and beyond. Consider your budget – how much you want to invest in your new male companion?

It's also worth shopping around on various sites. There is a huge price range and as the market gets bigger, more and more stores will look to compete on price, enabling you to get a better deal.

Step 2: type and materials

Before buy a sex doll, you should know what type man you like. A strong man, a handsome man, an Anime man, a young man, a old man? Black skin? White skin? Blue eye? Black eye? Beside, you need to know what the size of phallus you want. On the online store, it will describe the size.

Male sex dolls are made from the same materials as female sex dolls, with the two most common being:

- Silicone
- Thermoplastic Elastomer (TPE)

Silicone is actually more common in male dolls than female ones.

One of the things that TPE is great at is simulating the soft, jiggly feel of butts and breasts. For male sex dolls that isn't really a sensation most people are looking for.

Silicone dolls are a bit firmer feeling even in female dolls. For male dolls they really add to the realism of touching a male physique.

Step 3: Size and Weight

One big difference between male and female dolls is their size.

Female dolls are generally quite small.

Even full sized realistic sex dolls are only just above 5 feet tall, unless you request an especially tall model.

Lots of dolls are sold that are only a few feet tall to save on weight and cost.

With male dolls 5 feet is the lower rather than the upper limit.

Most male dolls will be somewhere between 5'3" and 6' tall.

Height is a major factor in male attractiveness.

Taller dolls are considered sexier.

This means that male dolls are going to be heavier.

Larger frames and taller dolls require more materials, which in turn makes them heavier.

Most of woman like strong and tall man, because a strong and tall man can give woman safety. However for a sex doll, if you look for a taller, stranger one, it is hard to move for a woman. The weight of a sex doll is heavier. So we would suggest that buying a shorter and lighter sex doll. A lighter sex doll is easy to clean than heavy's, and it would more flexible.

Step4: seller. Purchasing on legal store.

The sex doll produced from an illegal seller has not undergone a rigorous processing procedure, and the sex doll may have many bacteria, which is harmful to your physical and mental health. Second selecting a seller who provide after sales service. If there is any problem after buying it back, it can be solved quickly.

How to play with a male sex doll?

Male dolls can give and take during play.

Most will come equipped with a removable penis that you can up or downsize at will.

With female dolls it's all about putting them in a position you want to use them in.

A male doll can be positioned so that men or women can enjoy sex with it.

Many people I've talked to really enjoy going down on their doll, running their fingers across its tight abs and manly chest.

The realism lets you get deeply into your fantasy and totally enjoy yourself.

Most male dolls can also perform anal or oral sex.

They give you a lot flexibility in play type.
